The Department of English Philology at the University of Zielona Gora announces:

THE SECOND INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON

LANGUAGE, THOUGHT AND EDUCATION:

exploring networks

held in Zielona Gora, Poland

on June 1, 2012

1. Subjects

We are interested in a wide range of subjects which refer to the studies of language and language-related issues. This year we would like to focus on exploring networks.

"Network" is a term with a broad meaning; within the scope of the conference it generally refers to the relationships and interactions among nodes in various fields, such as semantics, lexis, morphology, cognitive/cultural categories or language transfer and bilingualism. By 'exploring networks' we understand research studies which cast new light on the workings of [inter-] language systems, cross-cultural communication and the cognitive architecture of both language learners and translators, as well as other interrelated systems which enable humans to communicate.

The language of the conference will be English.
