

Corpus Linguistics in the South 3

Teaching and learning with corpora: using corpus linguistics to facilitate and understand the education process

Oxford Brookes

June 23, 2012

Programme

- 10:00-10:15: Welcome
- 10:15-11:00: Sian Alsop & Hilary Nesi (University of Coventry)
“The Summary element in Engineering lectures: an analysis of one category of pragmatic mark-up”
- 11:00-11:15: Coffee break
- 11.15-12.00: Maha Alharthi & Nicholas Groom (University of Birmingham)
“The collocational competence of Arab EFL learners: a corpus-based study”
- 12.00-12.45: Keith Stuart (Polytechnic University of Valencia)
“Evaluative language and evaluative coherence”
- 12.45-2.00: Lunch
- 2.00-2.45: Yolanda Noguera Díaz (Universidad de Murcia)
“A subfield of English for Submariners”
- 2.45-3.30: Chau Meng Huat (University of Malaya)
“Learners, learner language and language learning: rethinking some basic constructs in learner corpus research”
- 3:30-3:45: Coffee break
- 3.45-4.30: Martin Wynne (Oxford e-Research Centre)
“Corpora in the Classroom: practical and technical issues”

Venue:

- Room FHG07, Fuller Building
Oxford Brookes, Gipsy Lane campus
Headington Road, Oxford OX3 0BP (map)

Contact:

- Alon Lischinsky (alischinsky@brookes.ac.uk, +44 (1865) 48 8739)
- Paul Wickens (paulwickens@brookes.ac.uk, +44 (1865) 48 4437)