

Get your Sociology Ph.D. at the University of South Florida!

Deadline for Fall 2013 Applications: January 15, 2013

Our Ph.D. program emphasizes interdisciplinary research, scholarship and teaching in the areas of identities, inequalities and communities.

USF Sociology offers:

- generous funding packages (Graduate Assistantships)
 - 9-month stipends given for up to 4 years
 - tuition waivers
- small cohorts & excellent mentoring
- diverse & dynamic department
- strong interdisciplinary orientation & collaborations
- innovative & flexible program organization
- teaching training & classroom experience
- strengths in the following areas:
 - urban problems and culture
 - social inequalities and social justice
 - identities and communities
 - social movements and globalization
 - immigration and migration
 - networks, health and wellbeing
 - education and families

Learn more at: <http://sociology.usf.edu/>

Application Requirements:

- completed M.A. degree in Sociology (or strong background)
- two official transcripts
- GRE scores (minimums: 160 verbal, 144 quantitative)
- excellent TOEFL scores (international students only)
- statement of purpose
- description and records of teaching experience (if any)
- CV
- single-authored writing sample
- three letters of recommendation

Apply online at: <http://sociology.usf.edu/grad/phd/admissions/>

Contact: Margarethe Kusenbach, Graduate Director, mkusenba@usf.edu