

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

The English Language and Literature (ELL) Academic Group of the National Institute of Education (NIE) is a department that focuses on research and teacher education in the areas of English Language, Linguistics and Literature. We pride ourselves in having a research culture that embraces diversity and multidisciplinary perspectives, as well as a strong focus on maintaining excellence in our teaching and pedagogy.

The department has both academic and pedagogy program commitments, and offers undergraduate and graduate programs as well as in-service and pre-service teacher certification courses. Research oriented graduate work is also offered for the Master of Arts and the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degrees.

We invite qualified applicants to apply for the position of Assistant Professor in the following academic areas:

- Pedagogical Grammar
- Language Teaching Methodology
- Literacy, especially new media and multiliteracies
- Communication Skills in Teaching

Applicants are to have a doctoral degree in hand by date of appointment in the relevant fields, with a strong record in research - refereed publications in applied linguistics/language and literacy education; a sharply focused research agenda; demonstration of ability in teaching graduate and undergraduate courses. Applicants will be in a position of added advantage if he or she possesses teaching qualifications and has had some school teaching experience.

Successful applicants will be expected to contribute to teaching and course development at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels, as well as related activities such as the facilitation of teaching practice, and graduate supervision.

Shortlisted applicants will be invited for an interview and to conduct a lesson in their area of expertise for our students at NIE, as well as a research seminar for faculty
