

30% discount*

*code expires 30 September 2026

DISCOUNT CODE

TIAL30

This book explores how applied linguistics can work more ethically and sympathetically through trauma-informed approaches. It considers the positionality of asylum seekers, the narrative construction of traumatic events, trauma-informed interviewing, interpreting and teaching, and the risk of vicarious trauma for practitioners.

Maybritt D. Woodcock is a PhD candidate in the Department of British and North American Studies at the University of Greifswald, Germany. Her research interests lie in language equity, migration, multilingualism and the interdisciplinary field of community-engaged research. Her PhD focuses on language barriers of modern slavery survivors in England.

Emily M. Feuerherm is an Associate Professor of Linguistics at the University of Michigan-Flint, USA. Her research interests include second language acquisition, language policy, citizenship, intersections of language and health, and engaged research methodologies.

Order your copy on the MM website!

www.multilingual-matters.com

Any questions? Email info@multilingual-matters.com

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Maybritt D. Woodcock and Emily M. Feuerherm: Introduction

Part 1: Narration

Chapter 1. Elena Foulis, Kelly Guzman and Rachel Showstack: Trauma-Informed Oral History Practices for Social Justice in Multilingual Communities

Chapter 2. Jeremy A. Rud: Practicing Trauma-Informed Listening in Asylum Application Interviews

Chapter 3. Diana Camps: Competing Conceptions of Childhood: Implications for Trauma-Informed Approaches to Policy and Practice for Unaccompanied Children Seeking Asylum in the UK

Chapter 4. Johanna Holzer: Linguistic Perspectives on Young Migrants' Discursive Reconstructions of Migration-Related Experiences

Part 2: Interpreting

Chapter 5. Maybritt D. Woodcock: Interpreting Services for Modern Slavery Survivors in England as a Matter of Trauma-Informed Care

Chapter 6. Chiara Rao and Koen Kerremans: The Helper's Hidden Burden: Vicarious Trauma in Interpreters Involved in Humanitarian Aid

Chapter 7. Kendra V. Dickinson, Belem López and Glenn Martínez: Trauma-Informed Practices in Interpreter Training with Latinx High School Students

Part 3: L2 Education

Chapter 8. Mirjam Broersma: Trauma and Second Language Acquisition: Socio-Emotional Wellbeing, Cognition, Motivation and Participation

Chapter 9. Francesca La Morgia: Integrating Language, Art and Wellbeing: Reflections on a Trauma-Informed Collaborative Project for Families Seeking International Protection in Ireland

Chapter 10. Melisa Miralles: Healing and Social Justice: Transformative Practices in the Heritage Language Classroom

Ava Becker: Afterword: Bringing a Trauma-Informed Lens to Applied Linguistics Research