Call for Papers

We are delighted to announce a call for papers for a one-day workshop on Monday, 4th September 2023 in University College Cork, Ireland.

The aim of the workshop is to bring together experienced and ECR researchers across interdisciplinary approaches related to Transnational Mobility in Higher Education, Residence Abroad and language learning, as the new Transnational Mobility in Education Network (TramE), facilitated by the support of EuroSLA.

The workshop will take the format of:

- An invited keynote speaker
- three thematic panels
- a Pecha Kucha session for doctoral students

The event will be held in person, but will provide livestream/online access for the plenary talk, a Pecha Kucha ECR networking session and the closing discussion.

We welcome abstracts for 10-minute oral presentations and 5-minute Pecha Kucha presentations. Priority will be given to ECRs and doctoral students.

Keynote Speaker: Prof Carmen Pérez Vidal, University Pompeu Fabra, Barcelona

Submissions are invited on topics loosely planned around three themes – language, identity, and implications for practice, including but not restricted to:

- Language acquisition and language practice during RA

- Linguistic diversity in RA

- Language contact during RA

- Identity and individual differences in RA

- Plurilingualism in RA

- Future of international mobility

- Virtual mobility

- Turning research and practice into impact

Submission Guidelines:

Abstracts should be no more than 300 words (not including references), with up to 5 keywords to situate your topic and preferred theme.

- Please submit your abstract via this online form
- Submission deadline: 23:59 (Irish/UK time) on Friday 14th July 2023
