

Visiting Professor in Speech-Language Pathology

Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders

Emerson College, Boston, Massachusetts

<http://www.emerson.edu/>

The Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders at Emerson College seeks a one-year visiting faculty member with primary expertise in typical and atypical language development. Successful candidate's current academic rank will determine visiting professor rank. The appointment is for the 2011-2012 academic year beginning September 1, 2011.

Required qualification is a record of excellence in teaching in language development and disorders at the graduate level. Preferred qualifications include a doctorate in Communication Disorders or related discipline and ASHA certification in Speech-Language Pathology.

The program in Communication Sciences and Disorders at Emerson is one of the oldest and most respected in the country, and is highly ranked among the most competitive graduate programs in communication disorders in the U.S. The department offers state-of-the-art, handicap accessible, on-campus clinical facilities easily reached by public transportation.

Emerson College is dedicated exclusively to programs in communication and the arts, located in the center of Boston, surrounded by major healthcare and research centers. The College enrolls approximately 3,000 full-time undergraduates and nearly 1,000 full and part-time graduate students.

Emerson College values campus multiculturalism as demonstrated by the diversity of its faculty, staff, student body, and constantly evolving curriculum. The successful candidate must have the ability to work effectively with faculty, students, and staff from diverse backgrounds. Members of historically under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. Emerson College is an Equal Opportunity Employer that encourages diversity in its workplace.

Please send via email inquiries and applications (including a cover letter, curriculum vita, recent teaching evaluations and names of three references who we may contact directly) to Associate Professor Amit Bajaj (amit_bajaj@emerson.edu), Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders. Applicants must also fill out an online application form in addition to submitting application materials directly to the department. To view this position and apply online please visit the faculty employment web page at <http://www2.emerson.edu/hr/employment.cfm>. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an appointment is made.