Global Health in the Global North

Techno-Optimism and the Value of Storytelling for the Future of Health Equity

Steven P. Black

This book investigates how health interventions are imagined into being in high-income countries, drawing on over seven years of fieldwork in the self-described "global health capital" Atlanta to consider the role of storytelling in the construction of global health futures. The volume highlights the ways in which scientific storytelling is critical to our understanding of how global health futures are constructed. This book will be of interest to students and scholars in linguistic anthropology, medical anthropology, global health, and health humanities.
