

Special Announcement

STUDIES IN LANGUAGE

Studies in Language introduces a new special section that will appear at irregular intervals:

News from the field:

We invite short contributions that report on new discoveries in little-known and/or endangered languages, emphasizing description over theory. Contributions will typically derive from original fieldwork and are expected to provide concise and well-substantiated analyses of linguistic phenomena that have not been noticed much in general or in the relevant family or area, but for which the wider theoretical and comparative implications cannot be established yet. Submissions will be refereed like regular articles.

Studies in Language

International Journal sponsored by the Foundation
“Foundations of Language”

Managing Editors: Bernard Comrie and Balthasar Bickel
University of California at Santa Barbara, Max Planck Institute, Leipzig /
University of Leipzig

Review Editor: Thomas E. Payne
University of Oregon

5-year Impact Factor: 0.761

Studies in Language is peer reviewed and indexed in: Social Sciences Citation Index; Social Scisearch; Current Contents/Social and Behavioral Sciences; Journal Citation Reports/Social Sciences Edition; Arts & Humanities Citation Index; Abstracts in English Studies; Cultures, Langues, Textes; European Reference Index for the Humanities; Germanistik; Humanities Index; IBR/IBZ; INIST; Linguistics Abstracts; Linguistic Bibliography/ Bibliographie Linguistique; LLBA; MLA International Bibliography.

issn: 0378-4177 (print) / 1569-9978 (electronic)

JOHN BENJAMINS PUBLISHING COMPANY

www.benjamins.com

subscription@benjamins.nl