

2019 International Year of Indigenous Languages Symposium

In celebration of the 2019 International Year of Indigenous Languages, an information session dedicated to Australian Indigenous Languages is being held.

Join in this unique opportunity to listen to a range of presentations from linguists, academics, policy officers and Aboriginal language speakers.

Topics include:

- the difference between language speakers and trained interpreters
- reverse court role plays
- language research and teaching
- cross cultural communication.

Morning tea, lunch and afternoon tea is provided free of charge.

When: Friday 31st of May, 9am - 4:30pm

Where: Charles Darwin University - Casuarina Campus, Mal Nairn Theatre

RSVP: Tuesday 28 May, email opvcil@cdu.edu.au or register on www.eventbrite.com.au

The event is proudly hosted by the Aboriginal Interpreter Service, Charles Darwin University and the Batchelor Institute of Indigenous Tertiary Education.
