

The 11th International Conference on Bilingual Studies

The International Association for Bilingual Studies (formerly Bilingual Studies Research Center) was founded in 1999 at Minzu University of China, under the leadership of Professor Dai Qingxia. Beginning with the Association's First International Conference during the same year, the Association has held ten conferences within and outside of China (the 9th International Conference (2012) was held in Thailand, and the recent 10th International Conference (2013) was held in Guiyang, China).

The Association, emphasizing the importance of bilingualism in modern society, highly values scholarly research, insights and discussions on bilingualism. The Association hopes to build stronger ties among scholars, to help them develop a deeper understanding of the issues related to bilingualism, and to push bilingual studies to new heights, and so the Association organizes annual conferences as an avenue for exploring, sharing and learning.
