Centre for Linguistics: An Overview

The Centre for Linguistics at Jawaharlal Nehru University focuses on core areas of linguistics such as phonetics, phonology, morphology and syntax, as well as on areas in interdisciplinary language studies such as neuro-cognitive linguistics and sociolinguistics. Some of the other areas of research by the faculty include language typology and sign language, with bio-linguistics being an emerging area of some common interest. The research conducted in the centre has resulted in descriptive grammars of some of the lesser known languages of Indo-Aryan, Dravidian, Austro-Asiatic including Munda, Tibeto-Burman and Andamanese. The centre has large field-based corpora on tribal and marginalized languages practically from every language family of India.

The Centre in its present form was constituted in 2005, but had existed since 1974 as a group of Linguistics which merged with the Group of English and constituted the Centre of Linguistics and English in 1978. The Centre has an intake of 35 M.A., 17 M. Phil. and 3 direct Ph.D. students every year.
